Pet Portrait Procedures

- ◇ The first consideration is to determine the customer's reasons for the portrait. The size and other factors in a painting will be influenced by such things as whether the painting is intended to be an impressive focal point in a room or an intimate memory of a loving pet.
- ◇ Next will be the photo session, which generally takes about 20-40 minutes. If the customer chooses to provide photos, it is requested that extra photos be provided, if possible, to assist with markings, coloring etc.
- ◇ The artist and client will both review the photos. Then photos, notes and other information gathered will be brought together to capture the essence of the animal in oil. Standards will be maintained to produce a quality painting that stands on its own as a piece of fine art.
- ◇ Once started, a portrait will take approximately 4 to 6 weeks to complete. An approximate completion date will be given. However, it should be noted that the quality of the painting will never be sacrificed for the sake of the deadline.
- ◇ Upon completion, assistance will be given in choosing a frame for the oil painting. At Creative Brush Studio there is a wide variety of quality frames from which to choose – from informal woods to 23K gold leaf.
